Verdict Upheld for Automobile Accident Victim

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla. – Appellate attorney Jane Kreuzler-Walsh was recently successful in upholding a six figure judgment against a company and its driver after a debilitating automobile accident that left a man with severe injuries. Kreuzler-Walsh, owner of Kreuzler-Walsh, Compiani & Vargas, successfully defended the appeal claiming trial court error.

A trial court had awarded nearly $500,000 to Lance Yandell after an automobile accident left him with permanent physical injuries. The automobile accident occurred in 2007 when a vehicle owned by Aarmada Protection Systems 2000, Inc. and driven by Jeffrey Steven Duble, Jr. rear-ended Yandell's vehicle. Aarmada and Duble appealed the judgment to the Fourth District Court of Appeals on three grounds. After consideration of all three claims, the three-judge panel affirmed the trial court's decision and upheld the jury verdict.

"I am glad that I was able to bring justice to this family by preserving the final judgment awarded in 2008," says Kreuzler-Walsh. "It was my duty to show the court that no errors were committed at trial so that this family can move on with their lives."

This victory for Yandell is another success for Kreuzler-Walsh, a board-certified and Martindale-Hubbell AV-rated appellate attorney. She has over 500 reported decisions and was recently on the cover of Florida Super Lawyers, along with earning the magazine's distinction of "The Top 50 Women" and "The Top 100" attorneys. Additionally, Kreuzler-Walsh was named to the 2012 U.S. News & World Report's South Florida Best Lawyers list for exceptional work in appellate law.
